It provides a lot of additional features besides just the standard 'inbox and outbox'. Windows Live Mail allows you to have group folders, edit html to plain text, have the ability to attach files and have the ability to read them in any kind of font. It is also free! There are a few advantages that come with this software. First is the fact that this can be set as the default mail client of your computer by clicking on the 'Internet' tab and selecting 'Windows Live Mail'. If you run Windows Vista you can also set a default browser with Internet Explorer as well. You can also have the option to log off the computer everytime you leave the program if you wish to. The last advantage is the fact that Windows Live Mail has a mobile version that can be used on any wireless capable device. This can be set to automatically download your mail for you and you can also receive push notifications when there are new emails waiting. There are many reasons why you might want to use a different email client. First of all is the fact that not all email clients support html. Most standard email clients are text only. It has good HD. screenshots. CS GO Skin Shop Valve has announced updates to a whole mess of game libraries for Steam. Amongst those is Counter-Strike: Global Offensive, which gets three new Counter-Strike-related skins: a new Pyro skin, a new in-game menu, and a new out-of-game menu. I am a huge fan of the Counter-Strike franchise, having learned the game on Windows 98 and Windows NT4. Don't judge my choice of platforms by this. Updated the "Counter-Strike" menu. There are only two main menu screens, and one of them has changed. The classic menu, found on the "Main Menu" page, now resembles the color scheme of the new CS GO game logo. The game logo now appears in the game icons. This one is closer to the original game logo. New. Added other skins to the "Other skins" page. The "Main Menu" page has also changed. It now consists of three main screens, along with what I assume are back links to the other submenu items. I removed Steamworks logos and trademarks from the Steamworks menu item, the Achievements menu item, the Game Information menu item, and the User Reviews menu item. There are still Steamworks logos on the other menus, but they are much smaller. I reduced the sizes of the hyperlinks on the other menu items. This makes the menu less navigation-friendly, but it makes it look more "professional". Added a drop-down backlink, which allows you to return to the "Game Settings" menu. Added the "Community Info" and "Friends" menu items. The "Community Info" item has an option to display the items in the Community Cards. The "Friends" menu item has a link to enable friends lists and friends management. Changed the name of the Application configuration item to "Support". The support page now allows you to manage the settings of Counter-Strike: Global Offensive. Updated the Steam Workshop item to include the new skins. I added four new label items to the Steamworks item, for the game,
