The 2018 announcement of the IPCC 5th Assessment report (AR5), which will be released this week, is a major scientific milestone. Not only is it the first full assessment to be authored by countries in Africa, Latin America and the Caribbean, it is the first assessment report to include information based on peer-reviewed research in all regions of the world. But, on top of its scientific credentials, AR5 is important for reasons far beyond the realms of science and policy. In terms of science, it is the first assessment report to have included the cumulative impacts of the entire human enterprise and the first to fully incorporate the new scientific information on warming's impacts on people, ecosystems and societies. In terms of policy, AR5

What's New In?

Super Office Tab is a small add-on designed to enable tabbed browsing for Microsoft Office. Generally every new word document or excel workbook or powerpoint slide we open up in a new window and this occupies a lot of space on taskbar and also its hard to manage all the windows. With this application, you can open any number of tabs in the same Office application window. This makes it easy to manage multiple things you are working on at the same time. Using Super Office Tab, you can save a lot of space and also can easily switch back and forth between the document or even view them side by side within one window Features:
