The upper picture shows you how this theme look like on Win 7 Pro. But as I wrote in my last review, even the original black Windows Vista theme also looks better after using the same layout on Vista. In any case you see a nice sun set picture, either from a stock photo that you can find and buy or from one you have created. What's nice to see is that the sunset images are again created by several big stock photography sites like Dreamstime, iStockPhoto and Corbis. Another nice thing about this theme is that it also works very well on the Win 7 starter pack which is free of charge. Read on to find out more details about this theme. Each time you click on a window, you see a picture of a sunset. Imagine the theme looked that way all the time. It would be very nice to look at every day. Where is the sun set on the upper picture of this theme? It's on the Cannerin island in the Pacific. Another nice thing is that you can also watch the sunset from your mouse. The time is shown on the upper left corner of your screen. Summer Sunset Description: In the second part of the theme you can choose between the original picture of the sunset or you can create your own sunset picture. Just make sure to find a photo that has very little cloud in it. The nice thing about this theme is that it is designed to work very well in a wide variety of desktop sizes from 1024×768 to 2560×1440. I personally use this theme in a 2560×1440 resolution. So on such a high resolution, the images get a lot bigger. The small sun set images I use in my first theme also look pretty good. The default desktop buttons of Windows 7, also shown in the upper picture of this theme is shown also in the upper picture of this theme. I like the original Windows 7 ones, just because you only have two sets of customizable buttons. In the second picture you also see the Classic Desktop buttons and the application buttons (I.E. Firefox, Explorer, etc.) Next, you also see the other two main categories of the Windows 7 desktop, the taskbar and the Start Button. Next, you see the login screen with the username and password field. And finally, you see the background picture that I use as a wallpaper. Even though the login screen appears on all Windows 7

The only difference is that it's a warmer color theme. joshuyugo I am running Windows 8 and it doesn't offer free themes. @Thunderthatch I am running Windows 8.1 and it doesn't offer free themes. @Storm I am running Windows 7 and it doesn't offer free themes. @Joshuyugo You are right. Windows 8 doesn't offer free themes. It's probably because Microsoft is focused only on Windows 8.1 users. But, if you want a Win 7 theme that is free, try the Winter Sunset Free (FREE) theme.
